MEXICAN IMMIGRATION UP IN CONGRESS

Whether California and the other Western states will be permitted to import laborers from Mexico to assist in harvesting their crops is a question now under consideration by the Immigration Committee of the House of Representatives, of which Congressman A. M. Free of California is a member.

Under the present law a Mexican, in order to come into the United States, must be able to read and write some language, must be free from disease, must not be mentally defective, and must pay a head tax of eight dollars and a visa tax of ten dollars. Under this law 32,000 Mexicans came into the United States last year to work in harvesting grapes, beets and cotton. Congressman Box of Texas has introduced a bill in Congress to permit only 3 per cent of the Mexican in the United States in 1890 to enter the United States each year. His contention is that Mexicans become public charges on the various communities where they congregate.

At the recent hearing farmers from all the Western States protested the enactment of this law. Representatives from the Fresno and Los Angeles Chambers of Commerce and the Farm Bureau Federation of California appeared and contended that Mexicans were necessary to harvest California crops. The hearings are still in progress.

GRANGE STARTS HALL FUND CAMPAIGN

At the meeting of the Grange, Tuesday evening the dinner committee for Old Settlers Day reported serving 239 persons at the Grammar School cafeteria during the 22nd celebration. The proceeds from which go to the Grange hall fund. A rising vote of thanks to the committee for their splendid work was given.

The committee on hall reported progress and asked for more time. Mrs. A. H. Harms read an interesting paper on asters, giving a history of their development from the small single wild forms of few colors, to the present magnificent flowers that are sometimes 6 inches in diameter, very double and of a great variety of colors and intermingling of shades. She also gave careful instructions for growing the plants from seed and their culture.

COUNTY OLD SETTLERS CELEBRATION AT CAMPBELL MARKED SUCCESS

Registration and Reception Features Add Much to Pleasure of Pioneers

As remarked by many, "Old Settlers Day was a most successful and enjoyable occasion" as staged in Campbell Monday all day.

From the beginning of a perfect day with a bright warm sun to the close of the evening program everything had been well planned and wonderfully well carried out.

The high school orchestra under the direction of Josef Halamick gave several numbers during the morning program. Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. W. E. Eckles and the benediction by the Rev. F. C. Farr. Homer DeWitt Pugh, one of the most popular tenors of the county, sang several songs which were most enthusiastically enchor.

Jan Kalas, our own cellist of renown played two compositions accompanied by his talented daughter, Miss Bozena, at the piano. It is always a real treat to hear these artists, who so graciously favor us from time to time.

Mr. B. O. Curry as chairman of the day made the address of welcome to the assemblage both old and new comers. He said in part:

Friends and neighbors! On behalf of the Orchard City, who is acting host today I welcome you all to this the 34th annual celebration of the old settlers day. It has become an important yearly event in the history of Santa Clara Valley and like the Saratoga Blossom Festival has grown beyond the limits of any single community, it is now participated in and enjoyed by residents of the entire County and other parts of California. It is however meet an proper that this important yearly event should take place here. It was in the vicinity of Campbell where the early settlers planted the first commercial fruit orchard in the State of California and here the settlers have established a modern community center with many institutions of merit where service is at their command in all lines of endeavor. We also take pleasure in extending a hearty welcome to all the new settlers and beg to share with them our best efforts for their happiness and prosperity in this valley of hearts delight. We miss one of our old settlers today, one who was taken from our midst the past year, our friend and neighbor, George Rodeck, he always took an active part in the welfare of the community.

We also mourn the loss of Grandpa Fabinger who is affectionately remembered by everyone who knew him.

As good patriotic American citizens we also celebrate today the birth of George Washington, one of the founders and first President of the great Republic. We trust you may enjoy the program of the day. Let sociality, friendliness and good cheer prevail. Again I welcome you.

F. H. Benson gave a short talk by way of introducing Lieut. Governor C. C. Young, the principal speaker of the day. Mr. Young gave a very accurate story of the growth of the state from its earliest settlement. He arrived in the state when but a year old and came to San Jose with his parents when but a small boy. Being an "Old Settler in the Valley" himself he was delighted to meet here with them. He was very much pleased with our fine grammar building which he declared was one of the handsomest he had seen.

California, Our State. It was a splendid address and greatly appreciated by everyone. The common expression was "The Lieut. Governor knows his state and what it needs."

Mr. Young expressed himself heartily in favor of a continued program of highway building which was now at a standstill because of lack of funds. He urged paying the trunk lines entering the state which at present are in such bad condition.

He made a strong plea for the conservation of our forests and replanting of cut and burned-over areas. The forests are not only needed for material but serve as magnets and conservers of rainfall. In timbered areas almost 90 per cent of rain and snow is held by the ground while in barren areas the run off is estimated at 92 per cent. He believed that a start should be made to store and distribute all the available water. This will be necessary to supply and feed the rapidly increasing population.

During the afternoon program violin solos were played by Cecil Ellison Duncan, a former student of Campbell accompanied by Mrs. B. F. King. Mrs. Duncan is a popular artist who has entertained Campbell audiences many times.

Miss Helen Kalas sang several very pretty solos in her charming lyric soprano accompanied by her sister, Miss Bozena Kalas of Pacific College.

Short talks were given by G. W. Page and Mrs. A. T. Herman.

Following the program a most enjoyable reception was tendered the pioneers who passed the hour in a real visit. Light refreshments were served the guests. Mrs. E. R. Kennedy was the efficient chairman in charge of the reception.

The Campbell Chamber of Commerce is to be congratulated for the success of this celebration. In passing through the rooms and corridors of the building we were impressed with the fact that this reunion while primarily an old settlers day has also become a regular home coming day for many old time residents.

Everyone seemed glad to shake hands and see each other smile. Come again and bring them all with you.

The following items will be of interest to many of our readers.

The reception committee pinned badges of various colors upon all visitors who had come to the S. C. Valley prior to 1900. 304 persons received these badges. 150 of these coming from states outside California, with about an equal number born in the state. That only 38 persons present could claim to have lived in the valley prior to 1860 indicates how surely the day of the pioneer is passing. They ought to be extended every courtesy while they are with us.

J. D. Guerraz has the honor of being the earliest pioneer among the visitors. He came to the Valley in 1848. Congratulations J. D., may your spirit never grow less.

Mrs. P. E. Payne of Payne Ave. Campbell has the honor of being the earliest pioneer among the women, whether its the regular blooming of the orchards or the English walnuts we don't know but she looks just as young as she used to be.

Mary A. Phelps was another of the '49 ers. She was born in the State and is proud of it, and lives in San Jose, the garden of roses. In 1851, Geo. Glendenning of Cupertino was only a California kid, but in 1926, he is a little older now, he still has the California spirit and is a booster. In 1852 we had four pioneers who are still with us and never miss the festivities of Old Settlers Day.

Newton G. Finley lives in Campbell. He came across the plain with Benj. Campbell. He delights in telling many interesting details of the trip. Mrs. Maggie Lovell Cook is no doubt the youngest Pioneer who ever came to the Valley.

The Sixth district of the California congress of parents and teachers met in Campbell Wednesday, Feb. 17th, with about 250 members present. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Noble White. Prof. I. R. Abbott gave the address of welcome after which the regular business was transacted.

Dinner was served in the cafeteria to 185 members, under the competent supervision of Miss Rowena Farman, home economics instructor. Campfire girls assisted in serving. An impressive ceremony at the luncheon hour took place when the 29 candles on the huge birthday cake were lighted. This being the official visit of Mrs. Hugh Bradford, state president, she was presented with a lovely basket of flowers by Mrs. Dale. Mrs. Noble White, district president was presented with a beautiful fern by Mrs. Schuyler with the compliments of the Foothill federation.

The afternoon session opened with a song of welcome by the members of the Foothill federation, accompanied by Mrs. Keesling at the piano. This song was composed by Mrs. Schuyler for the occasion. Mrs. Bradford then gave the address of the afternoon, which was most inspiring. Other interesting features of the afternoon were the group of vocal numbers by Miss Helen Kalas and piano selections by Miss Katherine Wood.

Let's Help to Grow Within

Coleman D. Brown, head of the organization service department of the United States Chamber of Commerce is authority for a statement to the effect that those cities and towns grow more solidly and permanently whose growth is from within, not from without.

There is something wrong with the man or woman who could not write an editorial on this. Current in the march of progress is the constant cry for outside capital, outside industries and outside populations, which has not only grown to absurd and vain proportions and called for the most extravagant claims, but often has been the cause of internal industrial decay and local business neglect. Worthy as may be enhancement of population and the "bringing in" of industries, there is undoubtedly a first duty to home institutions and to the business men already within our midst.

It is well, in this connection, to remember these salient facts: every local industry, however small, is the nucleus of a manufactory of national and world importance. Every store and business house, however short of stocks or capital, is potentially a successful factor in larger trade and commerce and has within it the seeds of greater prosperity. The history of business is too well known to deny the existence of examples of eminently successful merchants who were given the opportunity to return honest goods and excellent service for a loyal patronage on the part of the home people.

It should be the aim of the people of this and of all communities to look upon one another as partners in the scheme of success rather than as competitors in the struggle of failure. It should be the ambition of all of us to support home institutions with the idea in mind that one or all of them may prosper in such notable proportions as will bring credit to the entire community.

The old huskin' bees our fathers and grandfathers tell us about are splendid lessons in the noble art of "pitching in" and helping the other fellow, so that the other fellow will pitch in and help us. The world is learning that the structure of character and the finer processes of education are not imposed or crammed in from without, but are developments from within that emanate from the heart and from conscience and innate intelligence. The lessons taught are but guide-posts to real character and educational progress. None the less is sound community growth dependent first upon taking care of the people and concerns who already have cast their lot in Campbell. Some one at some time offered them an inducement to locate here, and posterity owes something to them in backing up the claim that they would make the choice worth while. We can do no less than pay the debt and thus cancel the mortgage of inflated development.

IS RADIO ADVERTISING SUCCESSFUL?

Radio came but yesterday; advertising is as old as commerce. But "the twain have met," and apparently will remain inseparable. The "courtesy program," directed by business men and commercial concerns, is quite entrenched in the field of broadcasting. Even the owners of the broadcasting stations are ever alert to let their friends of the air know that their chief occupation is selling something.

Someday the world may be able to divorce commercialism from art. Until then we must be content to take our radio programs in broken doses: first with a dash of Mozart or the set-to of a jazz band, then with an appeal to buy a choice lot or listen to no good reason at all why one brand of auto tire is more non-skid than another.

Sure, you can tune out if you don't like it; but only to tune in again on some jay-hawker telling you why the gray-eyed girl is liable to jump the matrimonial traces sooner than her blue-eyed sister. Why? Because "blue" rhymes with "true," or for some other no-account reason. How simple!

But we were talking about advertising. If advertisers want to keep sweet with the public they are advised to stick to the newspaper, where the victim at least has a chance to take it or leave it, and where he may "tune out" by merely twitching the eye to another column.

The home-town newspaper is the loudspeaker for the community, and it costs but a trifling sum a year to tune in.

FINANCIAL SECURITY COMES THROUGH SYSTEMATIC SAVING

Many persons after establishing savings accounts make the big mistake of neglecting to make regular deposits. It is a common fault that can be overcome by determining in advance the approximate amount that can be safely spared for saving each week or month.

The Mercantile Trust Company of California has seen many savings accounts grow to healthy proportions from lowly beginnings. Four per cent interest compounded semi-annually effects surprising results. Saving money is not difficult if attempted rationally and methodically. Make a start now by opening an account, even for as little as one dollar, but add to it regularly and persistently.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Anderson in San Francisco, Feb. 18th, a daughter. Mr. Anderson is assisting C. E. Berry at the S. P. Station.

Mrs. Bertha Heyler, who recently completed an attractive home on East Campbell Ave., left last week for Antioch, where she will remain for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ainsley went to Carmel last week, where they are enjoying a vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lloyd, who are spending several weeks there.

The announcement of the engagement of Geo. R. Stray, and Helen O. Clark of Schenectady N. Y., has been made and the marriage will be an event of the near future. They will come via the Panama Canal for a visit with his parents.

Miss Bertha Kelley with her friend Miss Eleanor Richards returned from Capitola on Friday, after they spent a month resting after training at the O'Connors Sanatorium, where Miss Kelley graduated on New Year's day. Miss Richards is spending the week-end in San Jose with Miss Phelps, before returning to her home in Oakland.

CLUB FUNDS INCREASED

The Moreland Goodwill Club enjoyed a most delightful afternoon with Mrs. H. C. Johnson, Williams Road, on Feb. 17th. It was a joy to all to receive a visit from a former member, we hope she will meet again with us. Each and all were quite delighted at the net sum added to the building fund as receipts from the dance of the previous week.

The "Mining Industry" of Australia was the study subject. This Mrs. Stanley Chambers handled extremely well, while gold is the leading mineral there are many others. The colleges have the Mining Engineering department situated at mines that the students may have the actual experience along all lines of the profession.

The next meeting will be an open one March 3rd, with Mrs. Gary Holtum of Payne Ave., at which there will be visiting speakers.

GERNA MC'C. ROBERTS PASSES SUDDENLY

The many friends of Mrs. Gerna McCarty Roberts were greatly shocked to hear of her sudden death at her home in Oakland last week.

Mrs. Roberts was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. McCarty of San Tomas Road and spent several years of her girlhood here, coming with them from Dixon, Solano Co., when she was 10 yrs. old. She attended the Moreland Grammar School and the Campbell High School, later graduating from the State Teachers' College in San Jose.

She followed the teaching profession very successfully, as a member of the San Francisco faculty until her marriage.

Funeral services were held in Oakland Saturday and were attended by several Campbell friends. Others would have been present if there had been time, after they received the sad news.

Mrs. Roberts is survived by her husband Thomas L. Roberts, a son, Arthur Sterling, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. McCarty, to all of whom is extended the heartfelt sympathy of their wide circle of friends. The passing of one who has rounded out a full life is sad, but the taking away of one in early manhood or womanhood carries an added sorrow.

Regrets of Pioneer Settler Recieved

Mr. B. O. Curry received the following note of appreciation and regret from a former old resident.

Chairman, Old Settlers Day, Campbell, Calif.

Dear Sir:

I received your kind invitation to be present at the celebration of Old Settlers Day on Monday, Feb. 22nd.

I would have been delighted to come had it been possible, but prior to receiving your invitation I had made arrangements to go to Lake County for that day, and cannot at this time change same. I hope at some future time to have the pleasure of being present at your celebration.

I fear that I personally would know very few people there, I at present know little of the roads, streets and avenues where formerly as a boy I used to hunt, and there were but two or three County roads for the distirct.

Wishing you all success for the day, and hoping to have better luck for myself next time, I am
Sincerely yours,
Alden Anderson

Morning Light Lodge No. 42, I. O. O. F. are completing plans for a regular orchestra. The lodge is fortunate in having a wealth of musical talent among its members who are rarin' to tune up. Rehearsals will be held at an early date under the direction of a most competent leader. All members who have had musical training are urged to be present at stated lodge meetings and enroll for membership in the new musical organization.

Ruth I. Brown and Reginald Lloyd Parry were married at the First Methodist Church, at San Jose, Tuesday, Feb. 23rd. Rev. Farr of Campbell officiating. Only the immediate family and a close friend being present. Wallace Rolls presided at the organ during the ceremony. After a wedding breakfast at Hotel Vendome the happy couple left for a honeymoon to England to visit the groom's mother. Miss Brown has spent much of her time in Campbell while her family lived here.

E. R. STEVENS DIES

The many Campbell friends of E. R. Stevens will regret to hear that he is seriously ill in a hospital at Sacramento. Last Friday he was taken with an attack of acute appendicitis, and the appendix was ruptured before the operation could be performed that evening. A letter from Mrs. Stevens the first of the week said that he was not yet out of danger.

The news of Mr. Steven's death reached us just as we went to press, but no further details.

California's Development Marked In Opening Sacramento S. P. Station

View of the new Southern Pacific station at Sacramento and some of the train platforms. Inset: Miss Bernadine Ahern, daughter of T. Ahern, assistant general manager for the railroad, a leader in dedication ceremonies.

Sacramento.—Formal opening and dedication of the new Southern Pacific passenger terminal station, erected at a total cost of $2,317,077, in this city Saturday, February 27, marks the most important milestone yet reached in the industrial development of central California and of the great Sacramento valley, which yields annually more than $350,000,000 in products.

The station terminal proper is of concrete and steel frame construction, covered with face brick and architectural terra cotta. It is 370 feet long and 100 feet wide, with three stories and a basement.

The old depot now being replaced, was completed in 1879. It was then "the finest building of its kind west of Omaha." At that time, Sacramento had a population of 21,420. Today the city has an estimated population of 102,300.

Sacramento has recently completed a $3,000,000 filtration plant, insuring clear, pure water, and has under construction a $750,000 municipal auditorium, as well as a $550,000 junior college. It has built new river docks and warehouses at a cost of $225,000 and last year did a million dollars worth of street improvements. A $3,000,000 cannery, occupying two full blocks was completed last year and a 15-story Elks building is now being finished. The $2,000,000 Hotel Senator and the $1,000,000 Senator Theater, are other new structures. However, it was the remarkable development and future potentialities of the twenty counties forming the Sacramento trade area which led to the erection of what might be rightly termed the "Sacramento Valley Station" of the Southern Pacific company.

With the development of the Pacific Coast the Southern Pacific company has built up at Sacramento the largest railroad equipment building shops in the west.

R. E. Hyde, Visalia banker and rancher, is going after the red spider with a vengeance this season. For the past two years the Hyde prune orchard just outside the western city limits of Visalia, Tulare county, has suffered severely from infestation of this pest but this year Hyde plans to accept the suggestion made two years ago to him by Horticultural Commissioner Frank R. Brann and try cleaning out the creek bed of all weeds on the theory that the spider hibernates therein during the winter period. This work has been done and done in a very thorough and conscientious manner and if there is anything in the theory it will certainly be given a very thorough and complete test.

A thirty-acre ranch purchased five years ago has more than paid for itself and is now making a comfortable living for Leonard Schmitz and his family of McFarland, who have disposed of a former ranch home in Ventura county and are living in Kern county. Mr. Schmitz is growing corn and alfalfa, sixteen acres in the former crop and eight in the latter; considerable space is also devoted to runs for a flourishing flock of chickens and two cows are more than paying their way.

About 900 bales of cotton had been ginned in the Wasco, Shafter and Rio Bravo districts by the middle of January, the present ginning for the season for this part of northern Kern county amounting to 8,940 bales at that time, according to the gin managers. The Rio Bravo gin had ginned 1,300 bales; the two at Shafter 3,530 bales, and the Wasco gins around 4,110 bales. It was estimated that 650 bales more would be handled before the end of the season in early February.

Fig leaves, long famous as the first dress of Eve in the Garden of Paradise, are to be utilized by mankind in a new way. This is according to J. W. Forkner of Fresno, who is the founder of a 12,000-acre fig tract north of that city. Fig leaves make a palatable delicacy when glazed. Forkner declared after he had worked months in his chemical laboratory with different processes, and the glazed product, as produced by his secret process has a most delicious flavor.

Major attention in Los Angeles county citrus circles has been given to the study and control of black scale, but recently red scale has become a menace and there is sufficient evidence to indicate that in certain areas it has become resistant to fumigation. A more detailed study of red scale control has been proposed and endorsed by the county farm bureau. A skilled entomologist to make a study of red scale in the south probably will be employed.

A surprise milk scoring contest conducted recently by the bureau of dairy control of the State Department Agriculture shows that the averaging for milk throughout the state is in excess of 95 per cent. This is believed to be unequalled by any other state. The average for the Los Angeles milk supply was reported to be 95.4 per cent. One and one-half pints of milk per capita per day are used in this city, the bureau report shows.

Orange shipments from the Redlands district, in Orange county recently passed the 1,000-car mark. It is believed that less than one-fourth of the total crop at Redlands has been handled. The shipments are running close to 200 cars or 80,000 boxes each week. The boxes will run an average of sixteen dozen oranges. The fruit is of fine quality but there has been some decay caused by over-ripeness at time of shipping.

The largest gathering of citrus growers ever held in Orland, Glenn county, was held recently to discuss the problems presented by this rapidly growing industry. Orland has had the distinction of placing her fruit on the market earlier than any section of the state outside of Glenn county, and the past year enjoyed the highest level of prices received for this fruit of any California district.

Urging winter irrigation rather than later in the season, John L. Quail, Merced county farm advisor, told those present at the chamber of commerce forum recently of the advantages. He stated that the early rains in the season were only wasted because the moisture was gone before the second rain came.

To reduce the cost of furnishing the San Joaquin General Hospital at Stockton, San Joaquin county, with milk and dairy products, the board of supervisors recently authorized the auction of the old dairy herd at the institution and purchased some sixty-nine milk cows from the Carnation Milk Farms at Seattle.

According to reports, the recent cold wave throughout the fruit belt of Ventura county caused no damage to the citrus industry. Some smudging was done near Santa Paula.

A cotton gin will be erected immediately in Hanford, Kings county, by the Globe Cotton Mills company, of Los Angeles, according to reports. The Hanford Board of Trade has announced that 2,000 acres of cotton, and possibly 3,000, will be planted in the vicinity this year.

L. E. Claxton has arrived in Stanislaus county, from Beaumont, Texas, to develop the tract of land recently purchased by his brother. The tract, fifteen acres will be put in shape for planting of fruit trees at once.

CONG'L CHURCH NOTES

The services of the week will be as usual. The Bible School meets a quarter before ten o'clock Sunday morning, followed at 11 o'clock by the preaching service. The theme of the sermon will be, "Follow Me", and is the first in a series of sermons leading up to Easter, based on the general theme of Helps for the Christian Life.

The two Christian Endeavor societies meet at 6:30 p. m., followed by the evening service, at which time we are to enjoy some very fine pictures on Persia, with extracts from recent letters from Mrs. Blair (nee Catherine Cooper) who is now with her husband, Dr. Blair, in that country.

Next Wednesday will occur in the church parlors at 6:30 p. m. the third supper in connection with the very inspiring informal talks by Dr. Geo. W. Hinman, of San Francisco. He is speaking to an increasing number who are availing themselves of this rare opportunity.

On Thursday, March 4th, at 2:30 p. m. the Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. Ellen R. Smith. The subject under consideration is "New days in Latin America," and the third chapter of this interesting book will be our study. All women are welcome.

There are approximately 5,000 unemployed laborers in Sacramento, the labor supply center for northern California, it was announced recently in a report by A. G. Anderson, manager of the state employment bureau. The number has been augmented during the winter, Anderson said, by "industrial tourists"—laborers who own automobiles and have come to California to avoid the cold months in Eastern states.

Jay Walker to Blame for Half of the Deaths by Auto

MANY a motorist whose car has figured in a fatal accident will be able to present a clear sheet to Saint Peter when his time comes, when one considers all the contributing factors outside of the driver's own fault. A total of 1,300 auto fatalities on record with the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, covering a period of seven months, shows that in 727 cases the fault was clearly the pedestrian's and cannot be put down to the driver, the weather or unavoidable circumstances.

The careless pedestrian's footsteps lead him to the grave by six distinct routes, says the Safety Council, and the most travel-worn of these is Jaywalking. Sixty-two per cent of the 727 auto fatalities just referred to were due to straggling across busy streets without using the intersections. Children's playing in the streets was responsible for 31 per cent and coasting for another 3 per cent. Confusion on the part of the pedestrian, not hearing whistles and turning back in his tracks, brought about 9 per cent of these 727 deaths, while physical disability and intoxication rate 3 and 2 per cent respectively.

W C T U Institute Held at Campbell

Wednesday, Feb. 17th, the W. C. T. U. of Campbell held an all day institute in the M. E. Church. In the forenoon, Mrs. Hollingsworth, county president presented the duties of the president. Mrs. Carrie W. Jackson, of Santa Clara county recording secretary, gave a clear and interesting talk on the recording secretary's work, and Mrs. Addie Johns of San Jose spoke for the treasurer.

Mrs. Jessie G. Heath of Ferndale, the Institute leader, told the why and wherefore for holding institutes throughout the state, and presented and explained the plans for the work as mapped out by the national W. C. T. U. for 1926.

A luncheon was served at 12:00 o'clock by the committee, at the close speeches were made by Rev. F. C. Farr and others upon timely topics. A carefully prepared paper by Mrs. C. H. Davidson, upon "What Our Community is doing for their foreigner in our midst" was read by Mrs. Treat.

The afternoon session opened with song and a prayer service conducted by Rev. W. E. Eckles. Mrs. Heath presented the work of the various departments of the organization. She gave warning of the promiscuous use of so-called headache cures, saying that they nearly all had habit-forming drugs. She said we should never use aspirin without the advice of our doctor or druggist, as it might be the very worst thing we could take. The use of patent medicines is also to be discouraged. "If you are sick," she said "see the doctor and don't dose yourself on those things that are made to sell."

Coco-Cola is made from the leaves of the Cocoa tree after the cocaine is extracted and produces a taste for the stimulant it contains.

Some of the interesting things of the national W. C. T. U. Convention held in Detroit were given and some answers to the statements of those opposed to the 18th amendment were given. After the Aaronic benediction the meeting was dismissed.

The Union wishes to thank all those who by attendance or services helped to make the institute a success.

As recently announced through the columns of this paper, Pacific Gas and Electric Company has purchased additional land here for the erection of a new substation.

According to J. D. Kuster, Division Manager of the Company, the present plant has become inadequate to meet the ever increasing demands for electric energy. An appropriation of $43,000.00 has been secured for the erection of a modern plant, on the property recently purchased.

WE have just passed thru that season of the year having the shortest days and longest lighting hours. Consequently your lighting bills are higher.
